

Unit 3: Social Awareness

Grade 11 | About This Unit

Social Awareness places importance on how we promote kindness and equity and how we value and treat others, especially others who may be different from us.

After completing these lessons, students should be able to:

- ✓ Identify the positive and negative qualities of their generation
 - ✓ Understand the benefits of working collaboratively and with others
 - ✓ Identify ways they can uphold their civic duties and understand why it is important to do so
 - ✓ Understand the importance and benefits of being courageous

Tips for Parents and/or Guardians

1. Discuss some positive qualities and negative qualities of your own generation. Ask your child what their generation can learn from past generations' mistakes.
2. Help your child identify ways they can uphold their civic duties in their community. Additionally, model what it looks like to uphold your own civic responsibilities.
