It is important to follow the Restaurant Rules whenever we are eating with others. These include self-control, hygiene, and manners. Read the scenarios below and decide if each person is following the restaurant rules or not. If the answer is no, make sure to discuss which restaurant rule the person is not following.

Question Cards - Cut & Use

Brooke is eating at a friend's house. She sees that they are having lasagna for dinner. She screams, "Oh my gosh, I love lasagna!"

Trevor is eating at a restaurant with his family. He really needs ketchup, so he says to his dad, "Hey dad, can you pass the ketchup?"

Charlotte is out for breakfast with her friends. She sees that her friend's pancakes look really good, so she reaches over with her fork and takes a bite.

Benny is eating spaghetti for dinner. He can't find a napkin, so he wipes his mouth on his sleeve.

Dexter is eating at his friend's house. He doesn't like what his friend's dad made for dinner, so he says, "Ugh this is disgusting!"

Gia is telling her family a story while at the dinner table. She takes a few bites of food and continues to tell the story at the same time.

Skyler has to go to the bathroom while she is at her friend's house for dinner. She says to her friend's mom, "Can I be excused to use the bathroom?"

Bella told her friends about her soccer game at lunch. She was really excited, so she was talking really loud and accidentally knocked over her friend's milk.

Cameron went to his friend's to hang out after school and stayed for dinner. He helped his friend's mom clean up the table at the end of the meal.
